

The patient presents with severe cystic acne vulgaris, unresponsive to topical treatments. Given the severity and risk of scarring, oral isotretinoin therapy will be initiated after confirming baseline blood tests and counseling the patient on potential side effects.